President Campanello's December Message:

Marshall speaks to clerks

Dear Fellow Clerks:

Our local elections have passed, and I hope everyone's Thanksgiving holiday was spent with family and friends.

The Clerk's Breakfast held Tuesday, October 16th at the North Carolina League of Municipalities Conference in Fayetteville was a special event this year with Elaine Marshall, Secretary of State, as our guest speaker. Ms. Marshall is a delightful person and very down-to-earth, and this was the first time that I had the opportunity to meet her.

Our Program/Education Chairperson, Elaine F. Hunt, had the pleasure of introducing Elaine F. Marshall. I thought the way our Elaine picked up on the similarity in their names during her introduction was quite cute. Also, many of you know Betsy Williams with the NCDOT Powell Bill Funding program. Betsy attended our breakfast and enjoyed time with the clerks because she works with us each year with the program she administers.

I was delighted that we had over 25 clerks attend the breakfast and among those were four past presidents of our association. Fayetteville Mayor Tony Chavonne welcomed all those attending, and we were introduced to the Fayetteville Town Clerk, Candice White. Elaine Marshall's assistant, Melissa Bradley, attended and if you will recall, Melissa was the speaker at the 2007 Clerk's School session on the gender appointment reporting. Ms. Marshall spoke on topics such as cable franchising, annual gender appointment reporting, E-commerce, noitary laws, etc. She also delivered a message from Rex Minimum, with the Secretary's office, reminding us that we must send all charter changes and annexation records to him for processing at the state level. She indicated that the average annual population growth in the state is approximately 50,000 and North Carolina's population is younger than the national average. All the information on the topics that Ms. Marshall spoke on can be found on the website at www.sosnc.com.

IIMC President, Charles Tokar, and the IIMC Board of Directors, recently appointed a task force to address the numerous concerns about the IIMC Education Guidelines. The task force is comprised of IIMC Board members, Institute Directors, state associations and the general membership. The task force is on a strict schedule to meet deadlines for the various issues for which recommendations are being requested. First and foremost is the need to determine the extent of "grandfathering" for those clerks in the CMC and MMC programs prior to January 1, 2007, the effective date of the new guidelines. The next topic for consideration will be the pre-approval process currently in effect. President Tokar's message encouraged input, and in that regard, Brenda Hunter, President of the County Clerk's Association; Fleming Bell, our IIMC Institute Director; and I co-signed a detailed e-mail to the members of the task force on November 13th expressing the concerns of our members

The clerk's role in training new members of Council

By Sue Rowland, CMC
District 6 Director

The campaign season is over and it's time for newly elected board members to transition from candidate to elected official. The clerk plays a vital role in this smooth transition. For those of us with odd-year elections, it's that time again for us to prove our value to these newly elected officials and ensure them that we're here to work hard to make sure they succeed. Each election year is unique, and we need to review our orientation program to ensure it meets the needs of each group of newly elected officials. Remember that our middle names are FLEXIBILITY!

Below is a summary of Cary's program.

- Candidate information session: We conduct this session for all candidates and their primary campaign workers as soon as possible after the candidate filing deadline. Topics include: overview of local government, budget and finance, land development, political sign rules and Q&A.
- Phone calls from the clerk the day after the election (or as soon as election results are known in close races): The clerk congratulates the victors and lets the incumbents not re-elected know she appreciates their service to the Town.
- Immediate to-do list: Within a week after election results are final the clerk meets individually with all newly elected officials to go over items that need immediate attention and gives each person a checklist with items and due dates. (Examples include: oath of office, technology needs, benefits information, required forms and all other "administrivia" that we need to cover so they're ready for their first day on the job. (The manager and attorney also conduct individual meetings in this same time frame.)

- Weekly reading assignments from the clerk: So as not to overwhelm the newly elected officials at once, the clerk e-mails them weekly reading assignments. Topics include Town of Cary general information, town officials and staff contact information, media relations, public records, meetings, council procedures, council vision (vision statement, mission statement, statement of values, goals and initiatives, Town Code and policies), boards and commissions, council's role in the development process, code of ethics, membership organizations, and Web links to town plans and documents.

- Formal orientation: The clerk works with the town manager to establish a 6-hour orientation program that all newly elected officials attend. Topics include Administration, Legal and Clerk Issues, Communications and Media Relations, Budget and Finance and lunch with department directors with an overview of key issues.

- Mock council meeting: We conduct a mock council meeting (especially helpful with a new mayor) to give the officials the opportunity to sit at the meeting table, experience the TV lights and practice for their first council meeting. Key staff attends to answer any questions.

- Council/Staff Retreat: Each year we have a council/staff retreat; when we have a lot of newly elected officials we try to have the retreat in January to give the new council an early opportunity to establish their vision, which leads into the budget process.

- New mayors attend the SOG/NCLM 1-day class for new mayors, and all new council members (and we're working to get the entire group) attend the 3-day SOG/NCLM Essentials of Municipal Government program. The elected officials determine if the appointed staff attend with them.

- NIMS testing for new mayor and new mayor pro tem

- Orientation survey: The clerk provides this survey to newly elected officials to get their feedback on the orientation process. We change our orientation based on this feedback.

Sue Rowland, CMC, is the Clerk for the Town of Cary.

Clerks earn CMC designation

Five members of the North Carolina Association of Municipal Clerks have achieved the International Institute of Municipal Clerks' high educational, experience and service requirements to be awarded the prestigious designation of Certified Municipal Clerk (CMC).

Dianne P. Berry, CMC, of the Public Health Authority of Cabarrus County; Juanita Faircloth, CMC, of Salemburg; Sheila Miller, CMC, of Clyde; Bernadette A. Parduski, CMC, of Shelby; and Dianne E. White, CMC, of Henderson received word recently from IIMC of their honors.

Carolyn S. Hedgepeth, CMC, Clerk to the Board & Human Resources Manager for Edgecombe County, was notified that she has received her CMC as well.

To earn the CMC designation, a Municipal Clerk must attend extensive education programs. The designation also requires pertinent experience in a municipality.

The program prepares the participants to meet the challenges of the complex role of the municipal clerks by providing them with quality education in partnership with institutions of higher learning. The program has been in existence since 1970.

They join more than 250 active Municipal Clerks from the State of North Carolina who currently hold the designation of "Certified Municipal Clerk."

Dianne Berry, CMC, Public Health Authority, Cabarrus County:

Dianne Berry began working for the Board of the Public Health Authority in August 1998, assuming the duties of Clerk to the Board in August of 1999.

Dianne says she is very proud to get this designation because she is the first to get the IIMC-approved CMC designation for any Public Health Authority in North Carolina or in the nation.

From 1998-2000, she was Administrative Assistant to Healthy Cabarrus. In 2001, she became Human Resources/Customer Service Program Coordinator, in addition to the Clerk to the Board title she's held since 1999.

Dianne received her CMC designation in September of 2007. She has been a member of NCAMC since August of 2005. She joined IIMC in June of that same year.

Juanita Faircloth, CMC, Salemburg:

Juanita Faircloth has been employed with the Town of Salemburg since July of 1989. She began her employment with the town as Town Clerk, Finance Officer and Tax Collector. In 1990, she acquired the title of Zoning Administrator. Juanita says her titles in her previously one-person office have ranged from house-keeping to grant writer.

Juanita has been a member of the NCAMC and IIMC since July of 2006. She earned her CMC status in August of 2007.

Sheila Miller, CMC, Clyde:

Sheila Miller has been employed with the Town of Clyde since May of 2003, serving as Administrative Assistant before being named Assistant Clerk in September of 2003. She became Town Clerk in November of 2005. She received her CMC designation in September of 2007.

Sheila joined IIMC in 2003 and NCAMC in 2004.

Bernadette Parduski, CMC, Shelby:

Bernadette Parduski has been employed by the City of Shelby since March 2001, first serving as Administrative Assistant to the City Manager. Appointed Interim City Clerk in December of 2004, she was appointed City Clerk in May of 2005.

Bernadette graduated from Gardner-Webb University in May of 2005 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration. She earned her CMC designation in September of 2007. She applied to MMCA in October of this year.

She joined NCAMC in July of 2005 and IIMC in August of 2005.

Dianne White, CMC, Henderson:

Dianne White came to work for the City of Henderson in March of 1988 as City Clerk. She received her CMC designation in October of 2007.

The Academy members must demonstrate that they have actively pursued educational and professional activities and have remained informed of current socio-political, cultural, and economic issues that affect local governments and municipalities.

both on the city and county level. A member of the task force acknowledged receipt of our correspondence and was appreciative for the input.

In closing, I would like to note that to date during 2007, two clerks received their MMC entry level; one clerk received the MMC level 1; one clerk received the MMC level 2; five clerks reached the final MMC level; and six clerks have received their CMC designation. I addressed the certification class graduates at the School of Government in October and there were over 40 city and county graduates of the course, so I hope to see more clerks receive their certification in the near future.
